

by gotobuhgo

History

In the beginning, the gods roamed the world, free to do as they pleased in the vast expanse, their power unchecked and unchallenged. But as time passed and their numbers grew, space became scarce, and eventually, the gods waged war upon each other, their immortal bodies locked in perpetual combat. Still their mortal suffered greatly, and the world was torn asunder.

In the midst of this chaos, a council of Demigods known as the Prismatic Knights, gathered to bring an end to the gods, determined to protect the mortals. The Knights worked tirelessly, forging seven great weapons, each imbued with immense power. With these weapons, the Prismatic Knights were able to craft a seal to protect the Plane and banish the gods to the Void.

With the gods sealed away, the seven Knights established a kingdom and chose a mortal as their king. For generations, the Knights protected their subjects and grew close to them, but as they grew more connected with their subjects, the Knights themselves became mortal. Mortality weakened the Knights seal, and the gods influence began to seep back into the world. The Prismatic Knights knew that they could not protect the world forever, and so they chose a new king, and set out to find a way to seal the gods away once more.

With the Knights gone no one was able to select a new ruler. This marked the end of the Prismatic Era, during which the seal keeping the gods at bay weakened and their influence seeped back into the world. Without a strong leader to maintain order, war raged for almost two generations.

Even today, the realm is still plagued by conflict, but some pockets of civilization have managed to thrive in the midst of the war-torn wildlands. Some still believe the rumor that the ancient Knight's sword, now considered relics, could grant a noble the right to claim the throne, and restore order to the kingdom. Still those were lost in the war.

Calendar

Dawn of the one

The first day of a new year, celebrates the time where the 7 knights would emerge from their castle with the new King.

Lunas' sacrifice

The last day of long nights and mid-winter. It's said Luna sacrifice herself to heal Sol to prep him for the war. Healing herbs and tonics are left out over night.

Awakening of the Seed

Mid-spring, the day seeding is planned and seeds are gathered.

The conquest of Sol

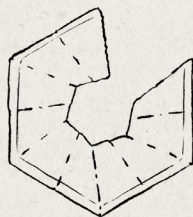

The longest day of sunlight and mid-summer. It's said this is the day, Sol fall in battle

The growing feast

Mid autumn, the last day of harvest season, where huge feast take part and a sacrifice is done for a good new cycle to begin.

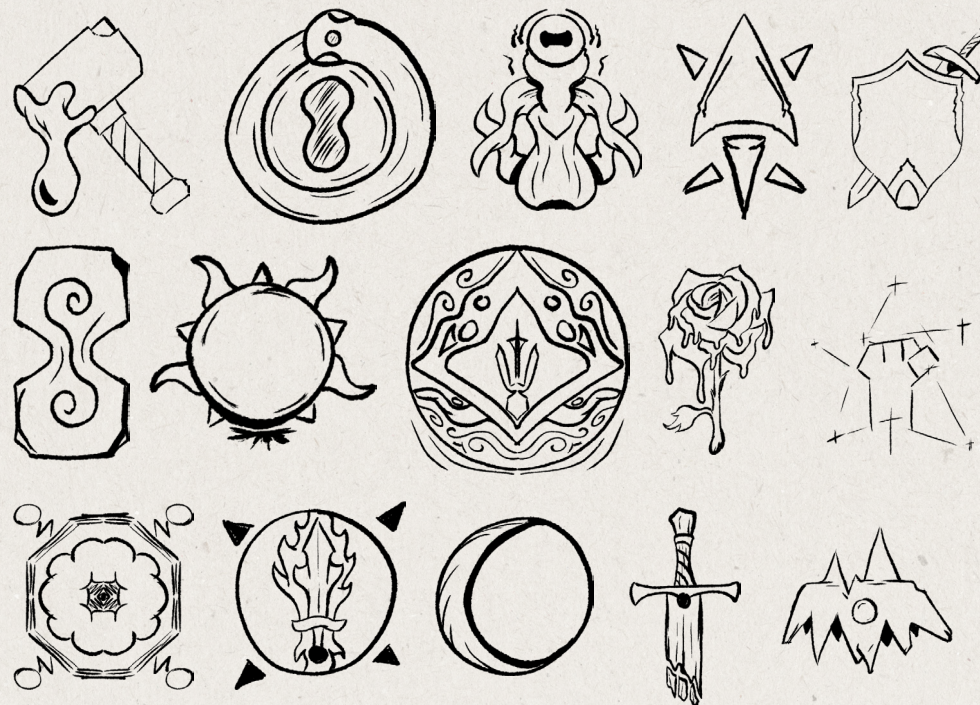

Dusk of the seven

The last day of the year, celebrating the day the seven knights forged their prismatic weapons and used them to choose a king

Deities

- Dionym, the Festive (NG) of Art, Joy, and Celebration
- Eros, the Lover (CG) of Love, Beauty, and Health
- Fortuna, the Wealthmaker (LN) of Luck, Wealth, and Tradition
- Haphesto, the Forge prince (TN) of Strength, Metal, and Invention
- Hel, the Frost Queen (LE) of Cold, Destruction, and Tyranny
- Hopleme, the Armed Mother (NG) of War, Wisdom, and Weapons
- Horizon, the Guide (TN) of Adventure, Humility, and Discovery
- Ignis, The Justicar (LN) of Fire, Justice, and Light
- Jovis, the Storm Princess (CG) of Storms, Peace, and Protection
- Luna, the weaver (CG) of the Moon, Dreams, and Inspiration
- Magust, the Arcane Father (CN) of Arcane, Knowledge, and War
- Merida, the Blood Lady (LE) of Blood, Lust, and Immortality
- Oceanus, the Floodbringer (TN) of Water, Life, and Prosperity
- Sekhmet, the hooded (NE) of Mystery, Death, and Treachery
- Sol, the Sun King (LG) of Sun, Kingship, and Creation
- Tempus, the Timewalker (CN) of Time, Transformation, and Chaos
- Valor, the Guardian Knight (LG) of Knights, Protection, and Purpose
- Xanthus, the Mad Hermit (CE) of Nature, Madness, and Solitude

Arid Plains

Dwarf's
Pass

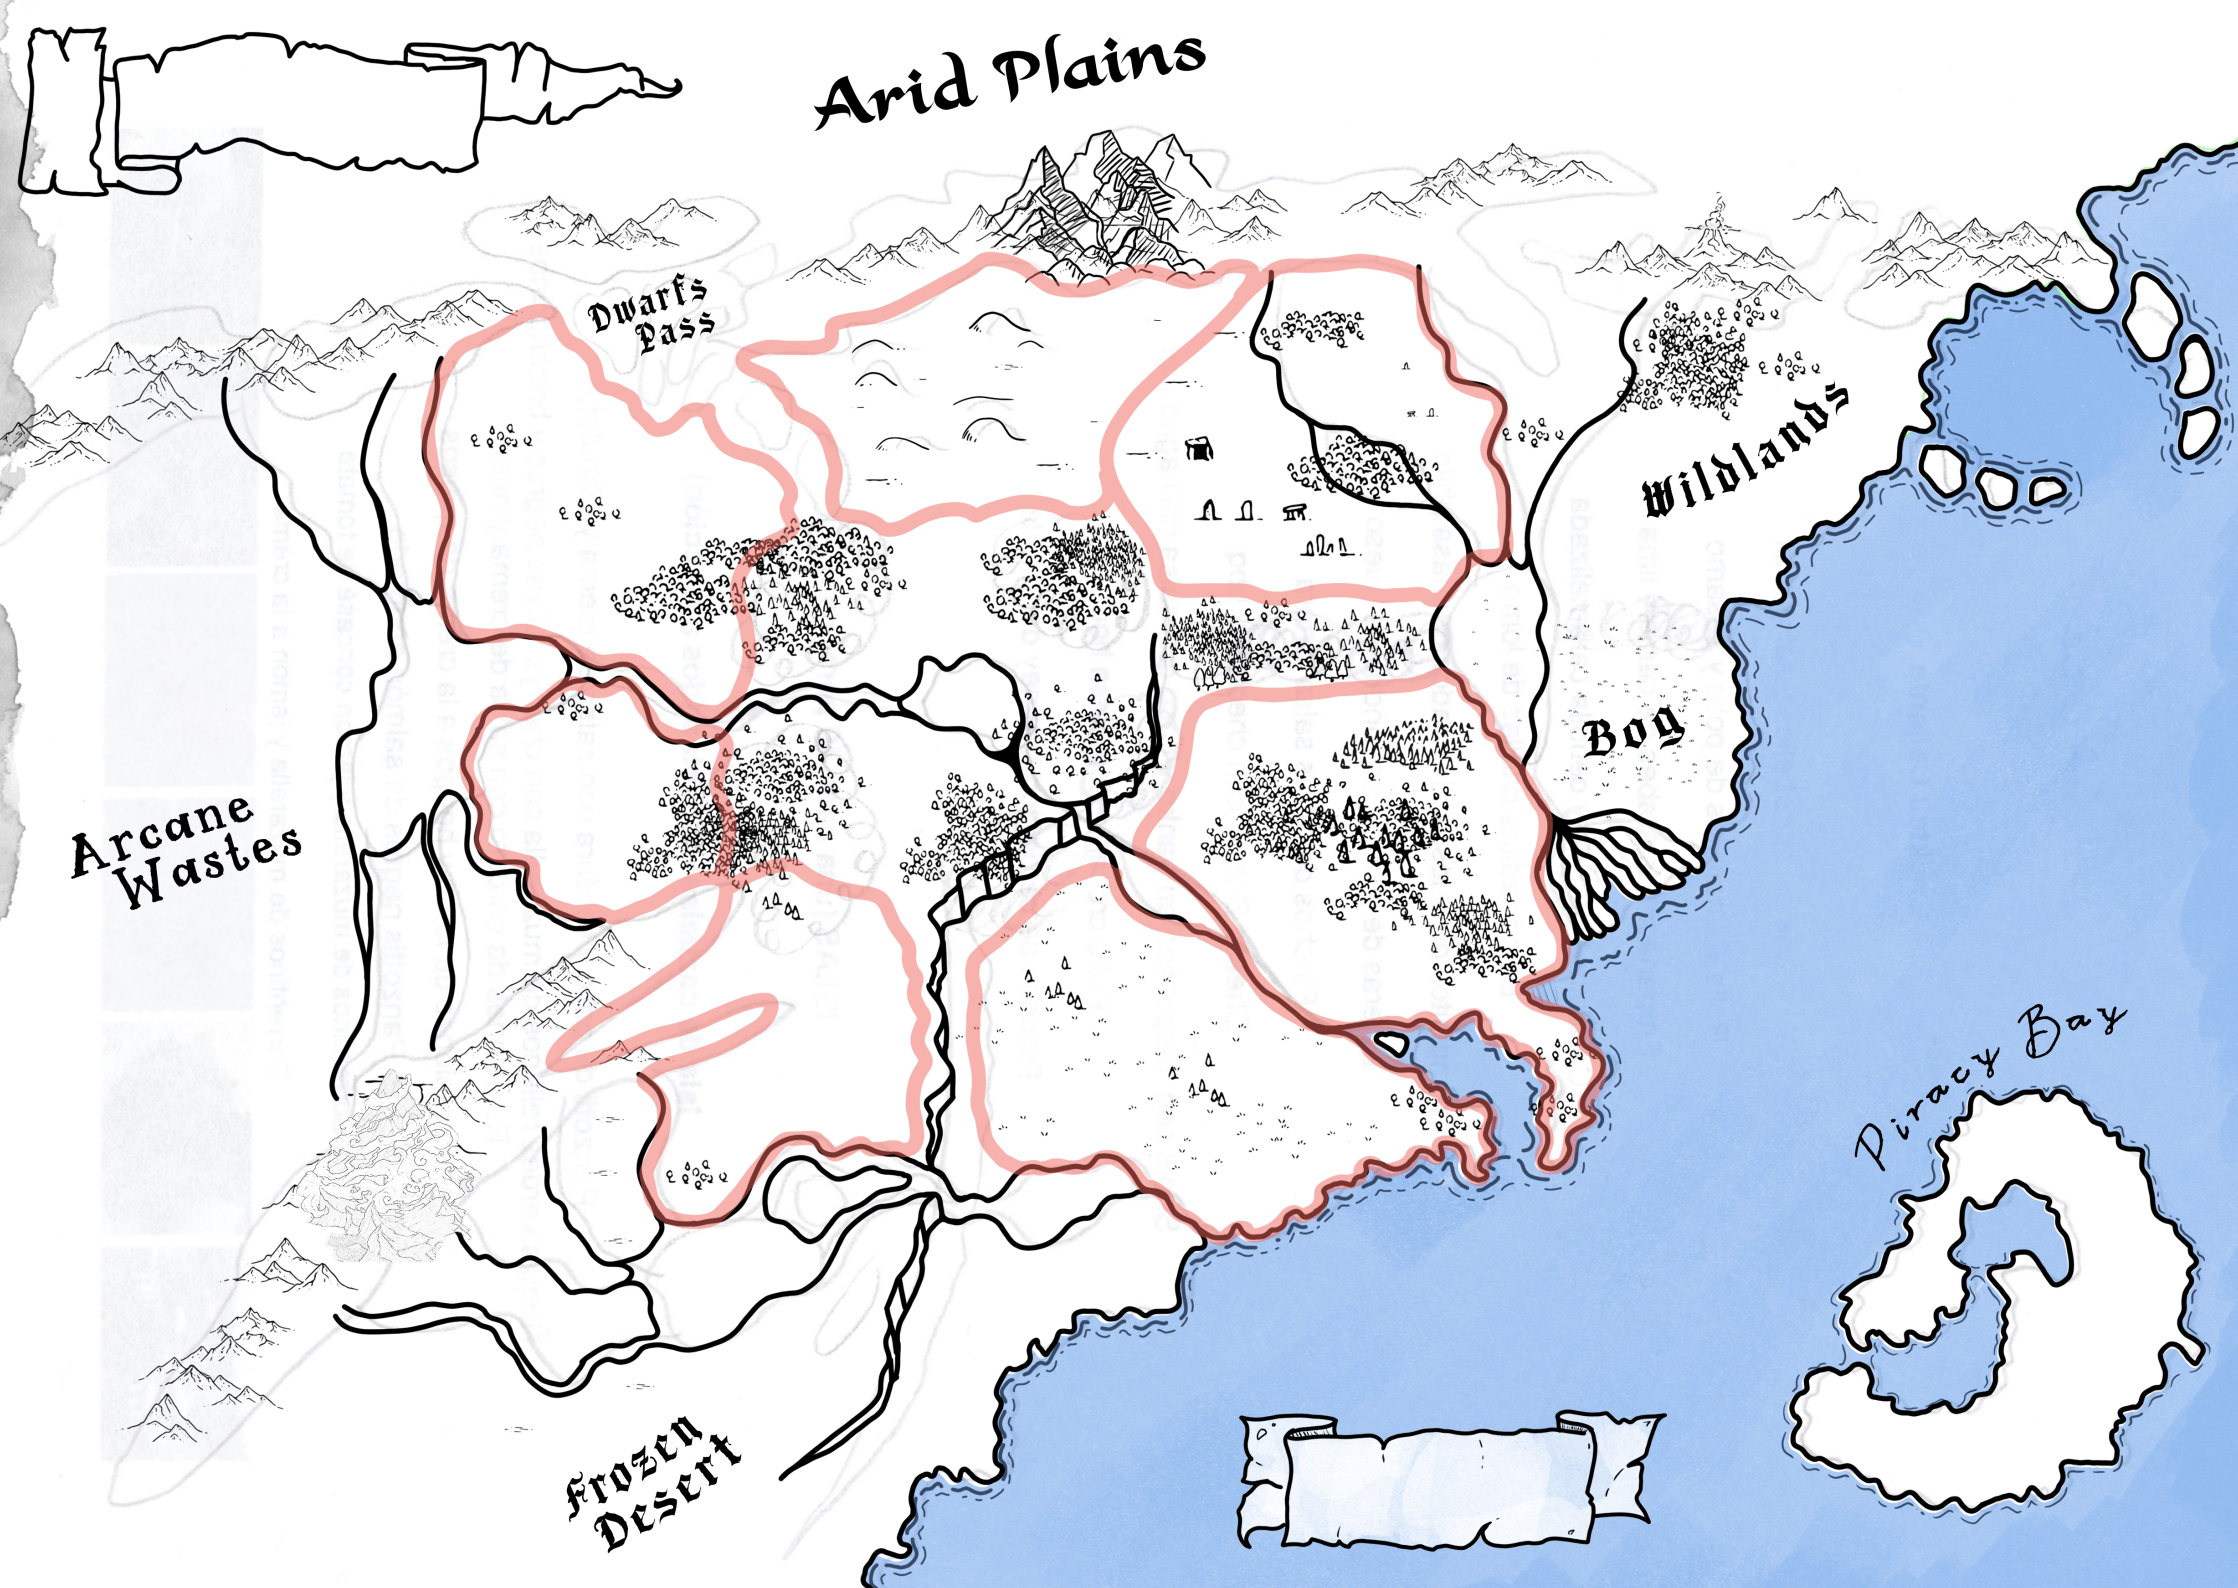

Wildlands

Bog

Arcane
Wastes

Piracy Bay

Frozen
Desert

Locations

Mystara, City of the Stars

Mystara is a magical city built on the ancient lands of the old gods, overflowing with Arcane energy. It is ruled by powerful wizards and renowned for its collection of Mage Colleges, where anyone inclined towards the mystic arts can learn and study. The capital city of Mystara is Izgalix, located across the Riuz river. It is home to the Mana Font and the Arcanum Magestis (a grand library and college of magic). Its inhabitants relish the diverse flavors of their enchanted food, the annuum mucii.

Izgalix is famous for the Great Festival of Magust, the Father of the Arcane. During this celebration, the city is aglow with lights and fireworks, and its citizens fill the streets with music, dance, and song. Mages in the city are divided into castes, ranging from nomags (people without arcane abilities) to apprentices, journeymen, robed, Brims (named for their tall hats with colored brims), Arch-mages (who have mastered multiple schools of magic), and the ultimate ruler of Mystara, the Magus.

Frostscale, Land of the Drako Lords

Nestled in the heart of a frozen mountain range, the people of Frostscale have learned to live in harmony with the Drako lords. Over time, a symbiotic relationship has developed, and nearly all tasks are performed with the assistance of these magnificent creatures. The grand citadel of the Drako lords, Drako Keep, serves as the pride of the region, perched atop a snow-capped peak. The residents of the keep have a deep reverence for their drakes and the drakes reciprocate their affection, living in close quarters with their human partners. Both the inhabitants of Drako Keep and their drake counterparts are proud carnivores, relishing raw meats. The use of leashes or the killing of animals is strictly forbidden within the keep, as drakes are known to become highly agitated in the presence of such offenses.

Each year, the keep plays host to the Festival of Drakes, a grand celebration where Drako lords pay homage to their elders, engage in thrilling aerial battles, and pair their young with trusted human partners. The festival is a time of great joy and reverence, where the bonds between humans and drakes are strengthened and celebrated.

Necroven, the Dark Forest of Mystery

Nestled in a lush coastal forest, Necroven is ruled by the enigmatic Void Lady and thrives on the power of magic and the Occult. At its heart lies the mystical city of Oak Bark, surrounded by towering trees and guarded by powerful hexes and wards.

Constructed entirely of wood, with each building crafted from ironwood and imbued with magical protection, Oak Bark is known for its love of hearty stews and soups made from the abundance of local herbs and mushrooms.

Throughout the year, Necroven celebrates eerie and mystical festivals in honor of the Void Lady, with the most revered being the Void Touching, where she is said to bless the citizens with her magic.

Beyond its borders, Necroven is known for its beautiful woodwork, exports of wood planks, logs, and mushrooms, and its embrace of magic and mystery. The people dare to delve into the unknown, embracing the darkness and reveling in the unknown.

Gemara, Gem Fortress

In the mountains of Gemara, a towering fortress known as Obsidian Fort dominates the center of the county's gem trade. Perched on an active volcanic peak, the fort is filled with precious minerals and gems mined by the hard-working people of Gemara.

Obsidian Fort is a steel and iron city with walls lined with glittering obsidian crystals. The people there lead simple lives, subsisting on a diet of charred meat and staple vegetables and working tirelessly to extract valuable resources from the volcano. The heat and arid climate of the area hasn't dampened their pride and determination.

The people of Obsidian Fort refer to themselves as the Children of the Forge, known for their expertise in working with gems and metals. They keep to themselves, trading only with travelers and merchants, content with the rugged land that sustains their prosperity. Festivals such as the Festival of the Volcano and the Trials of the Forge showcase their appreciation for the power of the volcano and their skills as blacksmiths.

Basthold, Land of the Beasts

Basthold is a region famous for its abundant and dangerous beasts, which have trained its people to become skilled hunters. The hunters of the area are highly respected and belong to one of many Hunter's Guilds.

Covert Lodge is the capital city of Basthold and is made up of a network of combat tents and barracks, protected by wooden walls. Due to the tropical climate and abundant wildlife, the diet of the people here is rich and varied, with a focus on meat, vegetables, and fruit. Children are trained in hunting and tracking from a young age and are later assigned to a guild based on their abilities.

Fragmented Kingdom

The highlight of the year in Basthold is the Day of the Hunt, where hunters gather to showcase their skills and share a communal meal. The most daring hunters target the most challenging beasts and a reward is offered to those who succeed in bringing one down. The people of Basthold make clothing, weapons, and armor from the beasts they hunt and refer to themselves as the "Children of the Huntress". They export meat, hides, and their skilled hunters to other lands, providing a valuable source of income..

Harveston, the Golden Farms

The County of Harveston is a verdant and fertile land with abundant water resources, making it the ideal location for agriculture and livestock management. The rolling hills and golden fields are testament to the expertise of the county's residents who take pride in their locally grown food and wine, particularly their vegetables and the wine they brew. The county's capital, Paradise Place, sits atop a hill, surrounded by acres of wheat farms and serves as the hub of the agricultural industry.

The main livestock in the county is sheep, which is also its symbol. The people are friendly and welcoming and celebrate their rich agricultural heritage with various festivals, but none are more important than the day of the harvest when they come together to celebrate the bountiful crops and good weather. They also honor the sheep and the wool they provide on the day of the sheep.

Twice a year, a unique phenomenon known as the "white wave" can occur, where a cloud of wool covers the fields and sways in the wind, signifying a good yield of wool. This event only adds to the pride the people of Paradise Place have in their county and its bountiful land.

Duskvale, the Masters of Coin

Nestled at the edge of the realm lies Duskvale, the County Masters of Coin, renowned for its opulence and wealth. Despite its small size, the county boasts a thriving economy, thanks to its skilled merchants and bankers who are considered the best in the world. The capital city of Aurterra is a shining gem in the county, known for its stunning architecture, including tall towers and gleaming golden decorations. The streets are lined with carts carrying the nobility, showcasing the city's prosperity. The mild climate of Aurterra makes it a popular destination for outdoor activities and festivals, with grand and lavish celebrations held throughout the year. The citizens of Aurterra are passionate about fine food, indulging in a diverse diet of seafood, meats, and fresh fruits and vegetables. The city's bustling marketplaces attract merchants and traders from far and wide, making it a hub of commerce and trade. However, beneath the surface of this wealth and luxury lies a dark secret—the county's prosperity is built on a foundation of back deals and murder. Despite this, the people of Aurterra remain fiercely proud of their skills and their county's reputation as the Masters of Coin.

Knights' Island

A massive ancient castle built in the center of the kingdom, where the Prismatic Knights used to convene to choose new Kings. It now lies abandoned.

Al-Qala'at, the Golden Citadel

An oasis on the limit of the Arid plains, this last bastion of humanity before the expanse of the desert is known for their exotic goods markets, full of mystic oddities and artifacts.

Piracy Coast

This island, ruled by a committee of Pirate Captains, is feared because they can contraband goods all over and do it through the Monster-infested seas.

the Arcane wastes

After a catastrophic war, the land was left uninhabitable by arcane radiation. Those who choose to brave the trek end up mutated.

the Frigid desert

Said to be touched by the hands of Hel, this lands see no life and freeze anything that come within them.

the Bog

Saturated with vegetation and water this lands are uninviting to traverse and more to those who looks to settle.

the Dwarf's Pass

a maze-like formation of canyons that grant pass through the razor's edge mountains to the arid plains.

the Wildlands

Long lost lands, unexplored and uncharted. They are rumored to be inhabited by giant beasts, wildlings, and old untouched ruins.

the Lands between

Once part of the Great Kingdom and the binding extensive between counties, now they are no-man lands, full of bandits and monsters where securities and protections fail to reach. Still, any attempt to conquer these lands is taken as an act of war.

Treatise

The Astral Forge agreement

As the war efforts subsided, Some of the counties decided to make an agreement for them to contribute with their specialties as a distributed effort for them to be prepared. the Agreement states that Gemara will provide raw materials for weapons and armor for Frostscale to Forge with drake fire. Then Mystara enchants those high quality items to be equipped by Trained soldiers from Basthold which will be relocated to each of this counties.

The Golden Accord

With the war-torn kingdom and the need to rebuild, the Harveston and Basthold agreed to help each other. The Harveston will provide food and livestock to the Basthold and in return they will provide protection and security to the Harveston and their people.

The Trade Accord

With the Duskvale and Basthold agreeing to help each other. The Duskvale will provide information and secrets to the Basthold and in return they will provide highly skilled knights as guards for the Duskvale's nobles.

The Magic Bean Treaty

Given the small lands of Mystara and the need to feed the people, the Harveston agreed to help them with food and livestock in exchange for the Mystara to provide them with magic beans and a conclave of Green brims (NatureBased Mages).

The Trade Accord

Duskvale and Basthold agreed to help all counties to have an open route of commerce between all seven counties. Duskvale pays for the carts and drivers, Basthold provides the guards and a small fee is payed by all to transport goods.

The Wurm Riders

A small rouge war band of Basthold that defected to Frostscale and were adopted by a drake lord. They are now feared and skilled drake riders that work for hire.

The Star Orb Coven

A group of Mystara that after studying on the collages, turn to Necroven to study the dark arts. They are now feared and skilled mages that work for hire.

People

Languages and Writing

All in the kingdom speak Common, but some in Frostscale speak Draconic, most in Mystara speak Elvish and write Script. The people of Gemara commonly write Runic and some can speak Dwarvish.

Common is a base language that is spoken by all, but each county has their own dialects and slang. It's also written in common letters and though not everyone can write it, most do know how to read the basics.

Draconic is the language of the drakes and was taught to the people of Frostscale by the drakes. It can't be written.

Elvish is the ancient language of the elves and was taught to the people of Mystara to cast spells. In writing it uses the script alphabet, giving power to the words.

Dwarvish is the language of the dwarves and was found by the people of Gemara in the deep mines in it' written form, Runic. Still the elders took their knowledge and taught it to the people.

Magic

Magic is a powerful energy that flows through the world. It can be used to create, destroy, heal, and manipulate the world around us. It can be used to create powerful weapons and armor, to heal the sick and wounded, to create food and water, and to manipulate the world around us. There are many types of magic, each with their own strengths and weaknesses. Not everyone can use magic and only a 25% of the population uses it. They are commonly known as Casters.

Types

Arcane (50), Divine (25), Occult (15), Primal (10), Psionic (5), Prismatic (0)

Arcane

Arcane magic is the most common and versatile of the types. It can be learn by most, given time and dedication. Almost half of Casters use Arcane magic.

Divine

Divine magic is the magic given by the gods. It's not the most powerful but it's the most reliable. It's not learn but granted to the faithful. Almost a quarter of Casters were granted divine powers.

Occult

Occult magic is the magic loan by Powerful entities. It's powerful and reliable but it comes at a cost. It's easy to get a hold of but it's not easy to control. Even if it's easy to get and its powerful, there are not lots of Occult caster because the toll it takes on the body and mind is too much and most people can't handle it.

Primal

Primal magic is the manipulation of the elements. It's the most powerful but also the most dangerous. It's not easily learn and it's mostly passed down from generation to generation. There is no known amount of Primal Casters.

Psionic

Psionic magic is the manipulation of the world through the willpower. It's the most powerful but it can't be learned. It's a gift that is given to a few. There is no known amount of Psionic Casters.

Prismatic

Prismatic magic is an ancient type of magic that the Prismatic Knights' used to seal the gods in the Void. No one knows how to use it and no one knows how to learn it. Most sages and scholars believe that it's a myth and that it never existed.

Economy

The common economic system is a duodecimal-based one. The coin is a Fortune, an iron coin that can be divided into 12 small Fits. This makes day-to-day commence super simple to understand. This is an old system devised by an old Wizard called Broad Brim.

Market

This are some common prices for goods and services.

Item	Price
:-----	:-----
Bread	1 Fit
Meat	1/4 Fortune (3 Fits)
Water	1/2 Fortune (6 Fits)
Axe	1 Fortune
Inn Stay	1 Fortune

Dramatis Personae

King of the Wild Men

A formidable figure, the King of the Wild Men cuts an imposing silhouette with his broad muscles and striking appearance. A wild mane of hair and beard, adorned with a crown of bones and leather armor, marks him as the leader of a band of fierce warriors. He challenges the beasts of the untamed wilderness with courage and cunning, inspiring awe in all who hear tales of his daring exploits. He leads a horde of feral warriors, challenging themselves against the fierce beasts of the wild lands. Though many common folks doubt the existence of such wild men, something keeps the beasts of the wild at bay.

The Witch Knight

Banished for her unusual combination of martial and arcane abilities, the Witch Knight has roamed the lands of Mystara in search of knowledge and purpose. A former knight of great renown, she now wields her sword and spellcasting skills in service of the greater good, offering aid to those in need and standing against the forces of evil. Her reputation as a powerful caster and skilled warrior precedes her, inspiring fear in her enemies and admiration in those she helps.

The Shadow Blade

A wraith-like assassin, the Shadow Blade is whispered about in hushed tones and feared by all. With no wounds on the bodies of their victims except for blackened scars, the Shadow Blade leaves a trail of death wherever they go. Rumored to be a master of both blade and shadow, they remain an enigma, their identity unknown and their motives unclear.

The Broad Brim, Mage Supreme of Mystara

A title of great power and prestige, the Broad Brim is the most skilled mage in Mystara. Trained by the ancestral elves and credited with the creation of the kingdom's current economic system, the mantle of the Broad Brim is passed down in a ceremonious rite of knowledge and power. With the broad brim of their hat, the current holder imparts their mastery of elvish magic to their chosen successor, ensuring the legacy of Mystara's greatest mage continues.

Caspirien, the Eloquent

A bard without peer, Caspirien's voice is synonymous with the finest storytelling in the land. A master of the lyre and the tongue, his gift for gab and love of the arts have earned him fame and adoration from all corners of the kingdom. From taverns to royal courts, Caspirien weaves his tales with skill and flair, captivating audiences with his masterful performances.

The Black Swordsman

A hulking figure in gleaming black plate armor, the Black Swordsman is a warrior beyond compare. Stories of their deadly exploits are told with reverence, their superhuman speed and unmatched skill with any weapon inspiring awe in all who hear of them. With their identity shrouded in mystery, the Black Swordsman remains a legendary figure, their name synonymous with unmatched prowess in battle.

The Void Lady, Ruler of the Necroven

A baroness with a fearsome reputation, the Void Lady holds sway over her lands with an iron will and a heart of ice. Said to possess the power to control the minds of those around her and glimpse the future, she is both respected and feared by her subjects. As one of the fabled psionic casters, she commands a powerful army and commands obedience from all who live within her realm.

The Wonderer, Master of the Land

A mysterious figure, the Wonderer roams the wilds and traverses any terrain with ease. With a master's touch for the bow and the sword, they are said to be equally at home in the shadows and in the light. An unparalleled tracker and hunter, the Wonderer possess a wealth of knowledge in hunting and tracking beasts.

The Cat

The Cat is a legendary thief, notorious for her artful heists of jewelry and masterpieces. Incredibly nimble and cunning, she can blend seamlessly into any crowd, evading capture despite numerous sightings. She is a master of the art of thievery, striking with grace and leaving no trace.

Relics and Artifacts

The Sword of the Void

A ornamented obsidian hilt with a missing blade. Once the wielder channels energy though the hilt Void energy materializes as a light-consuming blade. The blade is said to be able to cut through anything and to be able to consume the souls of those it kills.

Shield of faith

A small symbol with a chain attached to it. The symbol depicts a humanoid rising a shield. The chain is said to be able to heal the wounds of the faithful and with a holy word a shield of light appears to protect the wearer.

Black cowl

A dyed black leather cowl with a embroidered of an eye, that grants the wearer the ability to see in the dark, mask its voice and distort its face from the memories of those who see it.

the Skull of Kalak-tam

A skull face mask made of bone, that imbues the user with the power to manipulate death but floods its mind with the memories of the dead and its sleep is plagued by nightmares.

the Third eye of the Void

A gem in the shape of an eye needs to be encrusted on the forehead of the user. It grants the user the ability to see through invisibility, walls, and other barriers. It also grants the user a limited scrying ability.

Crown of Conquest

A rough crown made of jagged spikes of iron, forged into a band of bronze. It also counts with small barbs on the inside. It grants the user the ability to transfer emotions and pain to the surrounding people.

Black tongue

A black leather band that wraps around the arm, that taper into a thin strap. The band cuts circulation into the arm, slowly killing the user's arm. In its place a bundle of black tentacles grows out of the arm, that can be used to grapple and strangle. They can also merge for a limited time to form a normal arm or a large tentacle.

Blood-bone collar

An ornamented gold collar with ruby and emerald decorations. Its rumored to grant immortality to the wearer, but at the cost of a sizable sacrifice.

Book of Secrets

An ancient tome said to contain the secrets of the universe. It's also rumored to have banned spells and forbidden knowledge. There are many rumors about the book, but no one has ever seen it.

Helm of Eyes

A steel helm with no slits for the wearer to see though. Still, as soon as it is donned, ethereal eyes sprout all over the helm, granting the wearer the ability to see everything around them.

Crown of the Chosen

A secret set of runes that are carved into the head of the wearer. It grants superhuman strength, speed, and endurance. It also relives the user of all pain, need for sleep and food. There is a catch though, the user is unable to feel any emotion. It's also said that the runes slowly consume the user.

Shield of the Kingdom

Forged by the Prismatic Knights on the dawn of the Kingdom. Said to grant honor and glory to whoever holds it, if one of noble blood should hold it, those who uphold the beliefs of the Knights will follow.

Prismatic Weapon

The fabled weapons forged by a mysterious god for the Prismatic Knights to seal the gods in the void. Lost after the Prismatic War, some hold faith the the weapons still exist.

Folks and Legends

Known species

The Kingdom is home to a diverse array of races, both civilized and monstrous. Humans, Elves, and Dwarfs make up the civilized races and are known for their advanced societies and technological advancements. On the other hand, there are numerous monstrous races that roam the Kingdom such as Draconis, Orcs, Goblins, Kobolds, Hobgoblins, Bugbears, Gnolls, Ogres, Trolls, Giants, Lizardfolk, Pactborn, Shifters, and Furfolk. These races are known for their formidable strength and primal instincts, often causing conflict with the more civilized races. However, there are also those among them who have integrated themselves into society, leading more peaceful and harmonious lives.

Folklore

The Copper Troll—a giant creature made of copper who roams the mountains, searching for victims to add to its hoard. It's said that if you can make it past the Copper Troll, you will be granted unlimited wealth.

The Tarasque—a fearsome monster with a turtle shell, lion's mane, and dragon's tail. It's said to reside in the swamps, devouring anything that crosses its path. The Tarasque is known to be nearly indestructible and only a true hero can defeat it.

The Rakshasa—a shapeshifting demon that feeds on human flesh. It's said to be able to take on the form of anyone it desires, making it nearly impossible to detect. Those who fall victim to the Rakshasa are said to be lost forever.

The Sphinx—a creature with the body of a lion and the head of a human. It's known for posing riddles to travelers and only allowing those who can solve them to pass. Those who fail are said to be devoured by the Sphinx.

The Grisgol—a mischievous creature known for causing trouble in the countryside. It's said to play tricks on farmers, steal their crops, and make mischief wherever it goes. The Grisgol is also said to have a love of music and is known to join in on village dances.

The Draconis Stelaris—a celestial dragon that is said to reside among the stars. It's said to be the harbinger of good luck and fortune, and to those who are blessed enough to see it, it's said to grant wishes.

The Sibylle Guardian—a powerful being tasked with protecting the knowledge of the ancient world. It's said to reside in a hidden temple and only those who are pure of heart can approach it. Those who do are said to be granted the wisdom of the ages.

The King of the Mountains—a powerful giant said to rule over the highest peaks. It's said to have a heart of stone and a temper to match. Those who dare to climb its mountains risk facing its wrath.

The Living Metal—a sentient being made entirely of metal. It's said to roam the lands, searching for scraps of metal to add to its form. The Living Metal is known for its immense strength and its ability to manipulate metal to its will.

The Obsidian Serpent—a massive serpent made of obsidian. It's said to reside in the darkest caves, hunting anything that crosses its path. The Obsidian Serpent is known for its speed and its deadly venom.

The Wandering Ghost—a restless spirit said to wander the land searching for redemption. It's said to be unable to find peace and causes chaos wherever it goes. Those who encounter the Wandering Ghost are warned to avoid it at all costs.

The Void Guardian—a powerful being said to guard the boundaries between worlds. It's said to have the ability to control the elements and to grant safe passage to those who are worthy. The Void Guardian is revered by some as a protector of the world, while feared by others as a harbinger of destruction.

The Ancient Tyrant—a long-forgotten king said to have once ruled with an iron fist. It's said that his soul still haunts the land, seeking to reclaim his throne and enslave the people once more. Those who encounter the Ancient Tyrant are warned

Heading1

Heading2

Heading3

Heading4

Heading5

Heading6

Paragraph berepel endi volorem quo delliatursed elector Italic estrunt.

Blockquote dita doloreremodi tem ineliquod eium a sitinci a maionse vernam, sit aces ut la quuntet eosanis nem.

- Bulleted
 - Nested Bulleted
- 1. Ordered
 - a. Nested Ordered

Pirate Map

Lost Pirate

Gigant Hostel

IM FELL ENGLISH SC

IM FELL DW Pica

Amika Blackletter

—

Unlucky

Herb

Benjamin Franklin

Message in a bottle

Herb